Looking Forward...

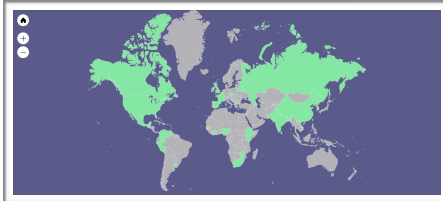

This academic year has been a great opportunity to grow and learn in a time where our World has seen much change and many challenges. For our students this has included multiple modalities for learning, working, and connecting with their families. The positives have included companies creating innovative internship opportunities with the students developing more effective communicating strategies, and learning to inspire and lead others during challenging situations.

For the Cohort 15 students, they are entering a workforce where their talents of resilience, creativity, and project management will set them apart from their peers.
