

Honors College - College Architecture, Planning, and Public Affairs

Honors students are required to earn 18 Honors points, plus complete a Capstone Project to receive an Honors Degree.

Honors Points – Points are earned through a combination of Courses and Experiences

CAPPA Course Points Required: 15 (5 classes)

Students earn course points by enrolling in Honors-designated or cross-listed classes or contracting existing courses. Less common ways to earn Honors course points are through Honors transfer hours from other universities, graduate courses, and independent study courses. Students should talk these options over with their Honors advisor.

Students earn 3 Honors course points per class. Points will only be awarded for grades of A or B. Honors eligibility cannot be based on grade alone; courses must include an Honors component.

Capstone Project

In addition to earning the required number of Honors Points, students will complete a Capstone Project to receive an Honors Degree. Courses taken for Honors Course points may not be used for the Capstone project. Although not all students will be required to write a thesis, all students will be required to produce a deliverable. Students must submit an Honors College proposal and their final project to the Honors College for approval by the published deadline. Students will present their Capstone Project at an Honors Symposium in either an oral or poster presentation.

CAPPA Capstone Statement:

The CAPPA Honors Capstone Project can be within the Creative, Research, or International categories. Courses taken for Honors Course points may not be used for the Capstone project. In addition to the Honors College requirements, the CAPPA Honors Capstone Project must meet the following:

- The project must be a result of the Honors student's individual endeavor. No team projects are acceptable, due to the difficulty of producing a deliverable that clearly demonstrates individual achievement.
- The student must submit a proposal for a Capstone Project to the Associate Dean for Faculty and Student Affairs no later than six months before the student's anticipated graduation.
- The Capstone Project needs to occur during an undergraduate student's final year of study.

Creative

- Creation of original creative work/activity and/or original interpretation

Research

- Traditional Honors thesis; research conducted under the mentorship of a faculty mentor

International

- Project developed through study abroad or service learning abroad

Recap - Honors Degree Requirements:

To graduate with an Honors degree, students must complete the degree requirements for their major, maintain a cumulative 3.2 UTA GPA, be a member of the Honors College in good standing, earn a minimum of 18 Honors Points, and complete and present a Capstone Project.
