Canvas Courses Open August 16

Students are eager to hear from faculty and begin preparing for the dynamic conditions that this Fall semester presents. Faculty are asked to:

• Complete their canvas profile and include any course technology requirements such as:
  • Direct students to the online Canvas Orientation or Teams training to be sure they may view and use "claim access" tools.
  • If using proctoring, remind Students, Faculty, and Teams about the technology requirements and complete "claim access" ahead of exams. Students can access this information by going to their Canvas Dashboard and clicking on the "1st" icon. Under the "1st" icon students can also find Canvas Help which they can quickly access via "need help"

• Remember to upload all Canvas courses, on August 16, and email students through Canvas to remind them to access the syllabus and check their UTA email for important announcements.

Fall 2020 Planning

• Forcific message from Provost. A crucial for faculty to use to respond to students' questions about masks, as well as for processes for classroom use being finalized and will be shared with all with the start of faculty share.
• Return to Campus Training. All faculty and staff are required to complete the short "return to campus" before returning for fall courses.
• Video for First Day of Classes. In response to faculty requests, University Communications in partnership with the Provost’s Office is developing a short video that faculty can share on the first day of class that outlines how our face-to-face course schedules, cleaning work areas, compliance with new procedures, etc. The video will be available to all faculty through Canvas shortly.
• MyUTeams CourseModality. Course modality is now locked-down to students and advisors accessing a consistent class schedule. Modality changes were accepted from the college level to the division level on August 5 and are being added to MyUTeams.
• The full modifiably definition list is available on the UTA COVID website. A selection is available on each syllabus page but it only includes courses previously listed on that page, not all modifiably.
• Courses are listed first as hybrid, face to face, and online, then a second modality is listed providing the specifics (e.g. Hybrid 1, Online 2, etc.). For questions, please reach out to mcosio@uta.edu.
• New Language in Syllabus. The Canvas syllabus template contains a new course overriding policy in its syllabus, and a section for faculty to add technology requirements for their Fall course (virtual/online, pros-toring software, use of Teams).
• Space for Course Exams. The Registrar’s Office is working with the associations to allocate space in response to requests for face-to-face exams before the Thanksgiving break. Options for using labs with computers, as well as large spaces that can be used for administering paper exams while maintaining social distancing, are being assigned.

Request for Loaner Computers, WiFi Sticks or Web Cameras

Faculty that do not have a device that can be used to support COVID-19 remote teaching can request to borrow a computer, WiFi stick, or web camera through CTE. Requests are subject to availability of equipment. Please email: technologyloaner@uta.edu with the following information:

• Department dean or chair approval
• Number of courses assigned to teach in Fall
• OS Type (Windows or Mac)
• Number of courses assigned to teach for Fall
• Expected return Date
• Cost Center (only charged for damages or thefts incurred while in possession of the device)

For student requests to borrow equipment, please refer them to the UTA Libraries.

Recording Courses and FERPA

As a growing number of faculty use online teaching tools, UT System has developed a guide on FERPA and posting and re-using course recordings, use of licenses, live lecturing and other practices that may raise questions about student privacy.

It is important to note that if students’ personally identifiable information such as faces, names, and voice is evident in the recordings, depending on the use, consent may not be revisited or the recording may need to be edited. Faculty are also reminded to use only UTA approved platforms such as Canvas and Teams to ensure that student and course information is secure.

If you have difficulty accessing the content in this announcement, please report accessibility issues to Faculty Affairs, facultyaffairs@uta.edu or (817) 272-7422.

Linkedin Available

August 1, 2020

LinkedIn Learning offers over 9,500 online courses which can be shared with students to provide supplementary resources or to build foundational skills. Faculty can view reports of student activity for the recommended courses.

Visit theCanvas website or attend the "Canvas and Teams Training" workshop to learn more about utilizing LinkedIn Learning in your class.

Designing Accessible Courses

Friday, August 7, 12:30-1 pm
Join CTE and IDE for this workshop on building engagement. More details to come on the CTE newsletter.

Teacher-Student Interactions in Online and F2F Courses

Monday, August 31
1-2:30 pm
Join CTE and IDE for this workshop on building engagement. More details to come on the CTE newsletter.

Upcoming Events

Faculty Affairs News 148 - August 6, 2020

Canvas Courses Open August 16

Students are eager to hear from faculty and begin preparing for the dynamic conditions that this Fall semester presents. Faculty are asked to:

• Complete their canvas profile and include any course technology requirements such as:
  • Direct students to the online Canvas Orientation or Teams training to be sure they may view and use "claim access" tools.
  • If using proctoring, remind Students, Faculty, and Teams about the technology requirements and complete "claim access" ahead of exams. Students can access this information by going to their Canvas Dashboard and clicking on the "1st" icon. Under the "1st" icon students can also find Canvas Help which they can quickly access via "need help"

• Remember to upload all Canvas courses, on August 16, and email students through Canvas to remind them to access the syllabus and check their UTA email for important announcements.

Fall 2020 Planning

• Forcific message from Provost. A crucial for faculty to use to respond to students' questions about masks, as well as for processes for classroom use being finalized and will be shared with all with the start of faculty share.
• Return to Campus Training. All faculty and staff are required to complete the short "return to campus" before returning for fall courses.
• Video for First Day of Classes. In response to faculty requests, University Communications in partnership with the Provost’s Office is developing a short video that faculty can share on the first day of class that outlines how our face-to-face course schedules, cleaning work areas, compliance with new procedures, etc. The video will be available to all faculty through Canvas shortly.
• MyUTeams CourseModality. Course modality is now locked-down to students and advisors accessing a consistent class schedule. Modality changes were accepted from the college level to the division level on August 5 and are being added to MyUTeams.
• The full modifiably definition list is available on the UTA COVID website. A selection is available on each syllabus page but it only includes courses previously listed on that page, not all modifiably.
• Courses are listed first as hybrid, face to face, and online, then a second modality is listed providing the specifics (e.g. Hybrid 1, Online 2, etc.). For questions, please reach out to mcosio@uta.edu.
• New Language in Syllabus. The Canvas syllabus template contains a new course overriding policy in its syllabus, and a section for faculty to add technology requirements for their Fall course (virtual/online, pros-toring software, use of Teams).
• Space for Course Exams. The Registrar’s Office is working with the associations to allocate space in response to requests for face-to-face exams before the Thanksgiving break. Options for using labs with computers, as well as large spaces that can be used for administering paper exams while maintaining social distancing, are being assigned.

Request for Loaner Computers, WiFi Sticks or Web Cameras

Faculty that do not have a device that can be used to support COVID-19 remote teaching can request to borrow a computer, WiFi stick, or web camera through CTE. Requests are subject to availability of equipment. Please email: technologyloaner@uta.edu with the following information:

• Department dean or chair approval
• Number of courses assigned to teach in Fall
• OS Type (Windows or Mac)
• Number of courses assigned to teach for Fall
• Expected return Date
• Cost Center (only charged for damages or thefts incurred while in possession of the device)

For student requests to borrow equipment, please refer them to the UTA Libraries.

Recording Courses and FERPA

As a growing number of faculty use online teaching tools, UT System has developed a guide on FERPA and posting and re-using course recordings, use of licenses, live lecturing and other practices that may raise questions about student privacy.

It is important to note that if students’ personally identifiable information such as faces, names, and voice is evident in the recordings, depending on the use, consent may not be revisited or the recording may need to be edited. Faculty are also reminded to use only UTA approved platforms such as Canvas and Teams to ensure that student and course information is secure.

If you have difficulty accessing the content in this announcement, please report accessibility issues to Faculty Affairs, facultyaffairs@uta.edu or (817) 272-7422.

Linkedin Available

August 1, 2020

LinkedIn Learning offers over 9,500 online courses which can be shared with students to provide supplementary resources or to build foundational skills. Faculty can view reports of student activity for the recommended courses.

Visit theCanvas website or attend the "Canvas and Teams Training" workshop to learn more about utilizing LinkedIn Learning in your class.

Designing Accessible Courses

Friday, August 7, 12:30-1 pm
Join CTE and IDE for this workshop on building engagement. More details to come on the CTE newsletter.

Teacher-Student Interactions in Online and F2F Courses

Monday, August 31
1-2:30 pm
Join CTE and IDE for this workshop on building engagement. More details to come on the CTE newsletter.

Upcoming Events

View more upcoming events on our Faculty Affairs website.