

GET ENGAGED IN RESEARCH AND EDUCATION

Become an EES Maverick!

Greetings,

Our faculty members offer research opportunities for undergraduate and graduate students in areas of environmental health, climate science, hydrogeology, geochemistry, paleontology, and sedimentary geology. The National Science Foundation, Department of Energy, National Institute of Health, and other private sponsors supports these opportunities.

Our undergraduate program has two focus areas, in Geology and in Environmental Sciences. We offer a summer field camp in Texas and New Mexico that is part of the Geology education. The multi-disciplinary graduate program consists of a Masters and Ph.D. degree programs in Environmental and Earth Sciences.

Our faculty and staff are also engaged in events and activities that connect the community to Earth and environmental science education.

Feel free to contact us, we are eager to hear from you!

Best regards,

Arne Winguth
Professor and Chair
