

Did you know that the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS)

- Predicts an increase in job openings for Social Work managers of 22% between 2016 and 2026; and
- Indicates that general social workers have an annual mean wages of about $45,000 compared to managers who on average earn $76,160?

Did you know...

It is highly likely, if you are a direct practice student, that you will be promoted to managerial positions without any graduate-level education in management, leading to

- "imposter syndrome"
- lower levels of satisfaction in helping other employees perform at a higher level
- Clients suffering from inadequately managed case workers.

Enrolling in this certificate program can increase your skills and promotion opportunities and lead to more effective services for clients!
